

Understanding Tariffs: Tools to Navigate Trade Policy

In an increasingly complex global trade environment, BMI equips clients with the tools to understand and respond to tariff-related developments. Our US Tariff Database is designed to deliver clarity in a space marked by uncertainty.

US Tariff Database

A structured tool for analysing US import tariffs, offering a powerful resource for trade and investment analysis. This online database includes effective tariff rates for 99 HS2 (Harmonised System) codes across more than 190 global markets, supporting clearer analysis of tariff pressures, market access risks and sector-specific trade exposure. Key features include:

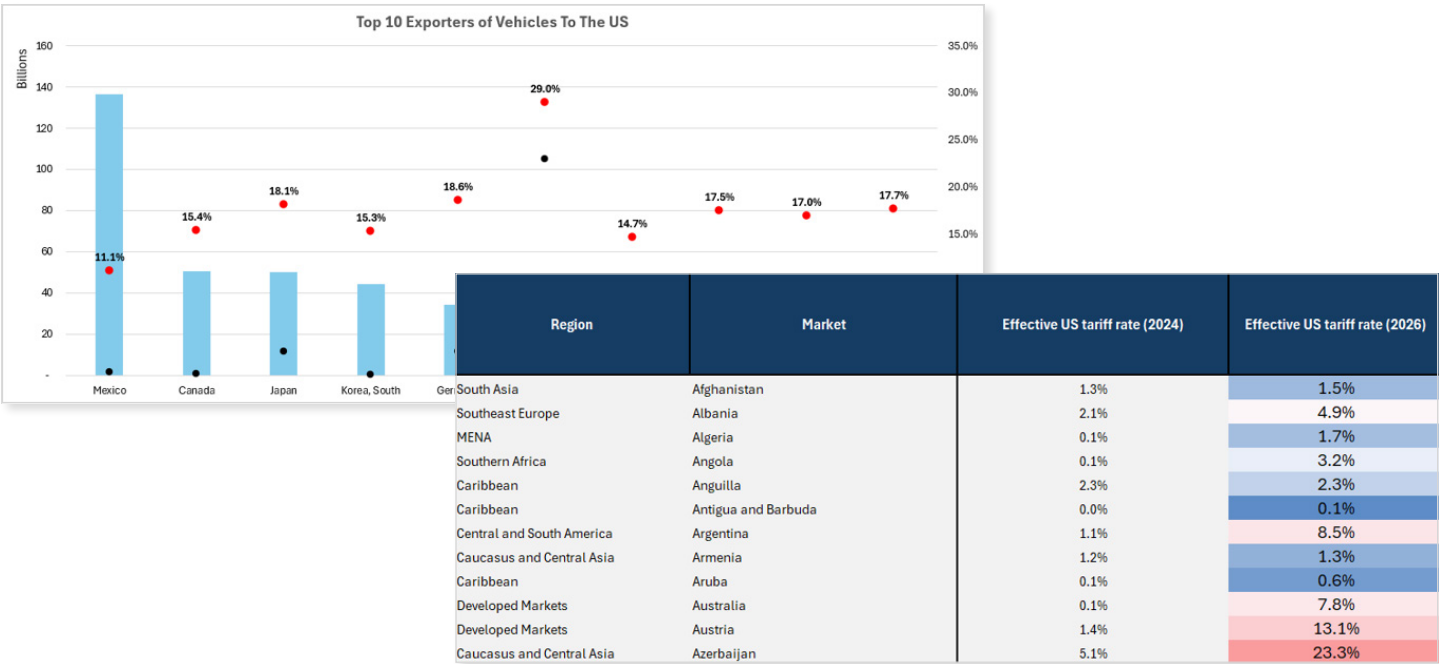

In-depth US tariff and trade data covering 190+ US import partners, supported by informative analytical tools to assess market, sector and supply chain exposure.

The database reflects major tariff announcements as they happen, helping clients compare historical and current effective tariff rates and track how policy changes are reshaping cost pressures.

Provides actionable insight into where tariff-related risks and opportunities are emerging across markets and industries.
